Foreword

The role of the Government Offices is to support the Government in governing the country and putting its policies into practice. Officials assist the Government by examining various issues, drafting legislation, providing data for the management of government agencies, developing relations with other countries and preparing various decisions and standpoints in negotiations, for example in the EU.

The purpose of the yearbook is to present facts and figures about the organisation, and responsibilities and activities of the Government Offices, with a focus on the following areas of operation:

- The legislative process.
- The budget process and agency governance.
- Government business.
- Work at EU and international level.
- External communication.
- Internal development and support.

The yearbook also contains information about the ministers who served in the Swedish Government in 2022 and a section on how to contact the Government and the Government Offices.

If you have any questions that are not answered in these pages or would like more information, please feel free to contact us. You are also welcome to visit our English website: www.government.se

Facts about the Government Offices

Organisation of the Government Offices

In 2022, the Government Offices comprised the Prime Minister's Office, eleven ministries and the Office for Administrative Affairs. The Government Offices is a single government agency headed by the Prime Minister. This means that the Prime Minister is both head of government and head of the Government Offices. During the year, general elections were held that led to a change of government. On 18 October, Ulf Kristersson took office as the new Prime Minister.

In the day-to-day work of the Government Offices, the Prime Minister is assisted by a state secretary at the Prime Minister's Office, the Permanent Secretary at the Government Offices and the Director-General for Legal Affairs at the Prime Minister's Office. The leadership of each ministry comprises one or more ministers, one of whom is head of ministry. Every minister is supported by state secretaries, political advisers, press secretaries and ministry officials. The Office for Administrative Affairs is headed by the Permanent Secretary.

Missions abroad – i.e. embassies, representations, delegations to international organisations such as the EU, the UN and the OECD, and career consulates – are separate authorities that are directly responsible in administrative terms to the Government Offices.

The Government appoints committees of inquiry and inquiry chairs. These are independent government agencies that report to the Government.

Duties of the Government Offices

“The Government Offices is responsible for preparing government business and assisting the ministers in other aspects of their work.” (Section 1 of the Ordinance concerning the Duties of the Government Offices [1996:1515]).

Duties of the officials

The Government Offices has approximately 4 800 employees, including some 200 political appointees. Those who are not politically appointed retain their posts regardless of the government in power. They are responsible for assisting the Government by preparing background material and developing proposals for government decision-making, and examining national and international issues. They also deal with issues related to the governance of government agencies, preparing data for the annual appropriation directions and following up agency activities. International negotiations, for example in the European Union, are also part of their work.

Government Offices activities

The appendix section of the yearbook contains descriptions of the Government Offices’ activities in a number of statistical measures that reflect its activities in various ways. The information can be divided into seven main activities that can be described in short as follows:

1. The legislative process

The task of the officials is, on the instructions of the Government, to process political initiatives, formulate terms of reference for committees of inquiry and prepare background material for decisions. They also circulate reports for comment, prepare proposals for referral to the Council on Legislation, draft government bills and prepare the issuing of laws passed by the Riksdag.

2. The budget process and agency governance

Government Offices officials prepare documentation and proposals for the central government budget, analyse and follow up the budget, prepare the instructions and appropriation directions that govern government agencies, participate in the appointment of agency boards and agency heads, and maintain regular contact with government agencies.

3. Government business

Government Offices officials prepare government business. This includes government bills, written communications, instructions to government agencies, appropriation and grant matters, and certain administrative matters.

4. Work at EU and international level

The Government Offices prepares Swedish positions and conducts negotiations in the EU. It is also responsible for transposing EU directives into Swedish law. Government Offices officials also represent Sweden in other international negotiations, including in the UN system.

5. External communication

The Government Offices staff assists the Government in communicating with the world at large. For example, officials draft input to ministerial responses to questions from the Riksdag and prepare replies to letters and emails from the general public.

6. Special projects and programmes

Special projects and programmes are activities of an administrative nature that are undertaken by the Government Offices. These activities last for a limited period of time.

7. Internal support

Government Offices officials are involved in internal operational planning, financial administration, human resources issues, IT support, security services, archiving, registration and the provision of premises.

Policy areas at the ministries in 2022

More than 100 embassies and consulates abroad answer to the Ministry for Foreign Affairs. An average of 1 278 officials worked at the Ministry for Foreign Affairs during the year (including committees of inquiry), of whom 502 were stationed at missions abroad. In addition, an average of about 1 350 staff were locally employed at missions abroad

The Government Offices' internal development work

The Government Offices must be constantly developed to provide effective support to the Government and to be an attractive employer. Digitalisation of the Government Offices' core processes is a priority area.

Work to create the conditions for the digitalisation of the Government Offices' core processes has continued. Implementation of digital working methods for government business began during the year. Preparations were also made to develop a working method for consultations and other ways of handling comments. This development will contribute to better process efficiency, improved product quality and better interaction with external actors.

Another high priority has been the development of administrative support processes, such as the introduction of a new accounting model that will be used in a uniform manner and support the needs of the entire Government Offices. Also in 2022, preparations began ahead of the planned change of payroll system by the National Government Service Centre. This has included a review of the human resources administrative processes.

The Government Offices' employer policy priorities for 2022–2025 were set by the Human Resources Director during the year. The priorities are to guide the development of the Government Offices' employer policy.

The Government Offices must be able to offer flexible working arrangements to contribute to efficiency and strengthen our attractiveness as an employer. Dialogues were conducted within the Government Offices during the year to learn from experiences from the pandemic and identify needs ahead of future development efforts.

Government Offices activities must be conducted in a sustainable and eco-efficient manner to help reduce their environmental impact. The Government Offices' environmental efforts are conducted in accordance with the environmental management system ISO 14001.

Introduction

Changes around the world mean ever increasing complexity and demands for faster processing times at the Government Offices. Policy matters are sometimes transferred between ministries, and ministries can be reorganised. A review of the Government Offices' duties can also result in certain decisions and administrative business being transferred to other government agencies. Caution is therefore required when making comparisons over time and between ministries.

One example is the reorganisation that took place in February 2022 following the change of government in November 2021. One result of the reorganisation was that the Crisis Management Coordination Secretariat was moved from the Ministry of Justice to the Prime Minister's Office. Also, a number of policy matters were transferred between ministries in February 2022, which affects the statistics in the appendix.

The Government Offices continuously reviews the internal division of duties between ministries and the Office for Administrative Affairs to ensure effective and uniform operational support to the Government. Since 1 January 2021, a joint Human Resources Division has supported the Government and the whole of the Government Offices on human resources issues. The new organisation provides all ministries with support and access to the Government Offices' collective human resources expertise. The Human Resources Division is part of the Office for Administrative Affairs. Since 2020, a joint Communications Division has also been located at the Office for Administrative Affairs. The Ministry for Foreign Affairs' communications and human resources activities are not part of this organisation.

1. The legislative process

The Riksdag passes new legislation and legislative amendments. Most legislative proposals are initiated by the Government. Before the Government presents a legislative proposal, an inquiry or a committee is often appointed with a remit to study a specific issue by gathering facts, analysing them and presenting proposals. The inquiry or committee receives instructions through terms of reference. In the course of the inquiry, it can prove necessary to extend or modify the remit. In that case, the Government can decide on supplementary terms of reference. These supplement the original terms of reference and generally also extend the duration of the inquiry. An inquiry or committee is usually appointed for a limited period of time.

A committee consists of a chair and one or more members. The committee can be assisted by advisers and experts. A committee with members from parties represented in the Riksdag is called a cross-party committee of inquiry. Inquiries can also be assigned to a single individual, an inquiry chair. An inquiry chair can also be assisted by advisers and experts, etc.

When the committee or the inquiry chair has completed its work, a final report containing proposals is presented to the Government. These reports are published regularly in the Swedish Government Official Reports series (SOU). Legislative proposals may also be studied and drawn up within the Government Offices. Such proposals are normally reported in ministry memorandums published regularly in the Ministry Publications Series (Ds).

Before the Government adopts a position, the document is circulated for comment to the relevant government agencies. Municipalities, interest groups and individuals are also given the opportunity to comment. Once this consultation process is complete, a government bill is drafted specifying the legislation proposed. In addition to the legislative proposal, the government bill includes an explanatory statement, comments on the proposal and a presentation of the views of the referral bodies. The Council on Legislation is often consulted through a proposal being referred to it for consideration before the bill is submitted to the Riksdag.

After being considered by the Riksdag, a government bill containing a legislative proposal leads to a decision by the Riksdag. If the Riksdag adopts the law, it is promulgated by the Government. The Act is then published on the Swedish Code of Statutes (SFS) website www.svenskforfattningssamling.se (in Swedish).

Sometimes, the Government outlines its position on a particular matter without submitting any legislative proposals to the Riksdag. Such reports are called written communications.

Government bills and written communications are published as decisions are taken. Read more about the legislative process on www.government.se

Acts and ordinances

A government bill containing a legislative proposal is considered by the Riksdag, resulting in a parliamentary decision. If passed by the Riksdag, the Government then promulgates and publishes the new act.

Ordinances are legal rules that the Government decides on. Ordinances regulate the activities of government agencies, for example. Acts and ordinances are published in the Swedish Code of Statutes (SFS). For more information, see www.svenskforfattningssamling.se.

The table below shows the number of acts and ordinances issued each year in SFS.

2. The budget process and agency governance

Work on the central government budget begins more than a year before the start of the relevant fiscal year. In December each year, the Ministry of Finance presents the Government with forecasts of how the national economy and public finances are likely to develop. In January and February, it continues to review and update the revenue and expenditure forecasts in the central government budget, government borrowing requirements, etc. At the same time, the other ministries revise the forecasts for their own expenditure areas and appropriations.

Next, the ministries submit consequence estimates to the Ministry of Finance for the coming three-year period. At the end of February, the government agencies submit their annual reports for the previous year and their budget documents for the coming three-year period. This material is analysed by the ministries.

Deliberations on the focus of the central government budget take place in March. Guidelines for economic policy and the central government budget for the coming years are set out in the Spring Fiscal Policy Bill, which is presented to the Riksdag in April. At the same time, the Government submits a central government annual report for the previous year.

The Spring Fiscal Policy Bill focuses on the guidelines and challenges for economic policy and budget policy over the coming years. Detailed proposals on new reforms are reported in the autumn Budget Bill. During the spring, meetings are held with the government agencies (agency dialogues) in which the political leadership and the agency leadership go through the agency's activities with both a retrospective and forward-looking perspective. The ministries also work on the reports that are submitted to the Riksdag for each expenditure area in the Budget Bill. During the spring and summer, the ministries prepare the amount of funds to be divided into individual appropriations.

The Government submits the Budget Bill to the Riksdag by 20 September. In an election year it must instead be submitted no later than three weeks after a vote has been conducted in the Riksdag confirming that the Prime Minister has sufficient support in the Riksdag, or three weeks after a new government has taken office if there has been a change of government. The Budget Bill contains proposals on expenditure ceilings for central government expenditure. The expenditure ceiling for an individual budget year is decided three years in advance, which is why the proposal applies to the third year ahead.

The Budget Bill contains proposals for revenue estimates for all budget revenue, proposals for preliminary expenditure limits for the 27 expenditure areas and proposals for the allocation of expenditure of appropriations in each expenditure area. In addition, proposals are submitted for preliminary expenditure limits and revenue estimates for the coming second and third budget years. The Budget Bill also reports the outcome of government activities in each expenditure area during the previous year as background material for the budget proposal.

In connection with the Spring Fiscal Policy Bill and the Budget Bill, the Government can submit proposed amendments to the central government budget. This is done in a spring amending budget or an autumn amending budget. If special grounds exist, government bills can also be submitted with amendments to the central government budget on other occasions as ‘additional amending budgets’.

While the Riksdag discusses the Budget Bill, the ministries begin drafting appropriation directions for the government agencies under their jurisdiction. The appropriation directions set out the financial powers that government agencies need for their activities and the objectives, reporting requirements and assignments that apply for the year. In November, the Riksdag decides on the budget revenue and the expenditure limits for all expenditure areas, and in December it decides on the amount and purpose of each appropriation in the relevant expenditure area. The Government subsequently decides on appropriation directions before the end of the year.

Summary of the central government budget, SEK billion

In 2022 the budget process involved the allocation of more than SEK 1 113 billion. The following tables show the outcome for the central government budget in recent years in terms of revenue and expenditure in current prices.

Agency governance

The government agencies that report to the Government are the Government's foremost tool for implementing the policies decided on by the Riksdag and the Government. The direction of the Government's agency governance is that it should be strategic, long-term, tailored to the agency's activities, holistic, coherent and trust-based.

In Sweden, we have organisationally independent government agencies with far-reaching delegated responsibility to independently determine how they are to fulfil their tasks. Under the Government Agencies Ordinance (2007:515), the agency management is accountable to the Government for the agency's activities. The agency's management is responsible for ensuring that the agency's activities are conducted efficiently and in accordance with applicable legislation and the obligations that follow from Sweden's membership of the EU, that they are reported in a reliable and fair way, and that the agency manages government funds prudently. The Ordinance also contains special provisions for the different forms of management. The Government is ultimately accountable to the Riksdag for everything that agencies do. The Ordinance expects good monitoring of the agencies' results and activities, and that the Government intervenes if it determines that the agencies are not managing their tasks appropriately.

The government agencies' instructions are the main policy document for the Government's long-term and strategic governance. An agency's instructions regulate the agency's tasks, management form and other circumstances specific to the agency. For some agencies, the legislation in an area of activity is also very important for how the agency designs and conducts its activities. Specific ordinances may also be important. Annual governance takes place through appropriation directions. There are also specific government decisions.

Another important governance tool for the Government is the appointment of directors-general and deputy directors-general, and of members of agency boards, committees and advisory councils.

An important part of agency governance is following up agencies' activities. One way this is done is through dialogue between representatives of the Government and the agency management.

Number of government agencies that report to the Government

The table below shows the number of government agencies on 31 December each year that belonged to the central government accounting organisation and that reported to the Government. The figures do not include Swedish missions abroad or committees.

The figures refer to the number of registry entries listed at Government meetings. Several decisions may be taken (i.e. several case numbers) under the same item listed.

Registered cases in the case register

As a rule, a case includes several documents. Here, a 'case' also refers to 'annual cases' for individual documents on a specific topic. The number of registered cases varies between activities and over time.

Applications, exemptions and appeals

The Government decides on certain exemption and appeal issues and certain grant and support applications. In the latter case, it is primarily a matter of grant applications from stakeholder organisations. The Government works continuously to amend legislation so that cases are moved from the Government to government agencies and courts.

4. Work at EU and international level

Missions abroad – Sweden’s embassies, consulates-general, etc. – represent the Government and the Government Offices around the world. Missions abroad strengthen the impact of the Government’s policies, safeguard Swedish interests abroad and provide residents of Sweden with consular assistance abroad.

Along with globalisation and Sweden’s membership of the EU, the Government Offices’ international and EU-related work has increased and is now extensive. All ministries are involved in EU-related work, which includes preparing Swedish positions, conducting negotiations, transposing EU directives into Swedish law, and monitoring infringement matters and cases before the European Court of Justice. Other examples of the ministries’ international work include representing Sweden in international negotiations, including in the UN system. The ministries also take part in bilateral meetings with other EU Member States, organise international conferences and inform the Riksdag about Sweden’s work in the EU and other international cooperation.

Travel days abroad

Employees of ministries other than the Ministry for Foreign Affairs also work abroad to varying degrees. A measure of this is the number of travel days among employees who are not posted abroad.

Ministry	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022

Explanatory memorandums on new EU proposals

Explanatory memorandums contain a summary of new proposals from the European Commission and set out the Swedish Government's views on them. The explanatory memorandums are submitted to the Riksdag's Secretariat of the Chamber and are then examined by the relevant parliamentary committee. The table below shows the number of explanatory memorandums submitted to the Secretariat of the Chamber by year. The statistics vary depending on the number of proposals the Commission presents.

Ministry	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022

Explanatory memorandums are available under 'Documents and laws' at www.riksdagen.se.

5. External communication

Communication is an important part of Government Offices activities and includes:

- communicating the Government's policies and the work of the ministers;
- preparing replies to questions and interpellations from the Riksdag;
- preparing background material ahead of public appearances and speeches;
- replying to letters from the general public and questions from the media;
- organising and participating in seminars and other events; and
- consulting and maintaining dialogue with the business community, stakeholder organisations and the general public.

The Government Offices' digital channels

The Government Offices primarily tries to communicate digitally. The hub for communicating the activities of the Government and the Government Offices are the websites: www.regeringen.se and www.government.se.

Here visitors can read up-to-date information, subscribe to news and view webcasts of press conferences. Government bills, written communications and Swedish Government Official Reports are also available on the websites.

The Government Offices uses social media to reach target audiences that do not normally visit www.regeringen.se or government.se, or to conduct a dialogue directly with target audiences. In addition to webcasts on regeringen.se, press conferences are often broadcast live on social media.

The Swedish language website regeringen.se contains information about the Government's and the Government Offices' presence on social media: www.regeringen.se/press/regeringen-och-regeringskansliet-i-sociala-medier/

Replies to interpellations from members of the Riksdag

The table shows the number of replies to interpellations, i.e. oral replies by a government minister to questions from a member of the Riksdag. The data in the table does not take account of Article 5 provisions*. Instead, replies to interpellations are attributed to the ministry where the minister concerned was serving at the time of the reply.

Replies to letters

The Government Offices receives a large number of letters every year from private individuals, both on paper and via email. Questions and comments from individuals also come in via social media. Letters from private individuals containing questions or proposals addressed to the Government normally receive a written reply. The table shows the number of replies sent by each ministry in recent years and recorded in the Government Offices case register. The number of letters varies over time and is related to the number of questions the Government Offices receives from the public.

Travel days in Sweden

Politicians and Government Offices officials have daily contact with various sectors of society. One way of measuring some of this activity is to count the number of travel days in Sweden, which are reported in the table.

Ministry	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022

The figures for 2021 have been adjusted, as the travel statistics were received after 2021 Yearbook was published.

6. Special projects and programmes 2022

Special projects and programmes are activities of an administrative nature that are undertaken by the Government Offices. They are financed by funds from the Government Offices' appropriation for administrative operations or from some other appropriation at the Government's or Government Offices' disposal. This could be when:

- the Government allocates project funds;
- the activity constitutes a platform for debate and opinion formation;
- the activity builds on collaboration with other parts of the central government administration or with other stakeholders in society; or
- the projects are intended to run for a limited period of time.

Special projects and programmes are only carried out in response to special needs or conditions. For example, the activity may not naturally fall within any other agency's sphere of responsibility. The activity may also cut across multiple sectors of society and require decisions being regularly taken by the Government or an individual minister, which is difficult to express in a remit to agencies. The programmes and projects are often important supplements to other Government activities.

The list below shows a selection of projects and programmes that were active in 2022.

Ministry	Project/ Programme	Start	Conclu- sion	Description
A	Delegation for the Employment of Young People and Newly Arrived Migrants	2014	2023	The delegation promotes collaboration between different actors and the development of new forms of collaboration. The aim is to achieve greater local impact for labour market policy initiatives to help young people and newly arrived immigrants become established in working life.
A	Delegation against work-related crime	2021 t	2025	The delegation brings together and supports relevant actors combating work-related crime, strengthens knowledge of work-related crime in Sweden and spreads knowledge of international experiences.
A	Gender main-streaming in government agencies – GMGA	2013	2025	The Government's development programme for gender mainstreaming in government agencies (GMGA) aims to strengthen these agencies' gender mainstreaming efforts so that their activities better contribute to the achievement of the national gender equality policy objectives.
Ju	Delegation for Migration Studies (Ju 2013:17)	2013	2025	The delegation initiates studies and communicates research results in the area of migration as background material for future migration policy decisions.
M	2030 Agenda and the Sustainable Development Goals	2015		The 2030 Agenda comprises seventeen Sustainable Development Goals. The aim is to eradicate poverty and hunger, realise human rights, achieve gender equality and the empowerment of women, and ensure lasting protection of the planet and its natural resources.
M	Fossil Free Sweden	2016	2024	The aim of the initiative is to speed up the transition to a fossil-free society by helping to strengthen and deepen cooperation between the Government and other societal actors.
M	Leadership Group for Industry Transition (LeadIT)	2019		Sweden and India launched the Leadership Group for Industry Transition (LeadIT) to promote climate transition in energy-intensive industry and for a fossil-free future. The countries and companies involved work for an industrial transition aimed at becoming fossil-free with net-zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2050.
S	Office for Sustainable Working Life	2021		The Office for Sustainable Working Life is part of the Government Offices. The Office aims to improve the potential for a longer and sustainable working life. This will be done by identifying needs and proposing measures. The Office submitted its first interim report in 2022.

7. Internal support

Employees by ministry

The following tables show the average number of employees by ministry. The column on the right shows the average proportion of women and men in each ministry in 2022. In connection with government reshuffles and other organisational changes, certain activities are sometimes re-allocated to other ministries. Caution must therefore be taken when making comparisons over time.

Departement	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022	Proportion women/men

Proportion women/men	61/39	61/39	61/39	61/39	62/38

'Employees' refers to the average number of employees, including staff on committees and staff posted abroad, who were in service for the whole or part of a month each year. Leave of absence and sickness absence on a full-time basis have been deducted. Annual leave has not been deducted.

Employees by staff category

The table below shows the median number of employees by staff category for each year.

Ministry	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022
Managers	510	506	513	518	533
Case officers	2 830	2 764	2 774	2 887	2 937
Specialists	574	543	587	570	603
Political appointees	203	181	204	193	167
Support staff	610	570	545	548	542
Government Offices	4 727	4 564	4 623	4 716	4 782
Calculated as FTEs	4 599	4 446	4 505	4 602	4 674

'Employees' refers to the average number of employees, including staff on committees and staff posted abroad, who were in service for the whole or part of a month each year.

Leave of absence and sickness absence on a full-time basis have been deducted. Annual leave has not been deducted.

As the figures are medians and each subtotal is aggregated, this can mean that the sum of the parts does not match the aggregated total sum.

'Managers' refers to non-political senior officials and officials with personnel responsibility at the Government Offices.

'Case officers' refers to officials with no personnel responsibility. The category includes positions such as desk officer, deputy director and senior adviser.

'Specialists' refers to those employed under the Government Offices specialist agreement. They are mainly committee and inquiry staff, legal and special advisers, etc. employed on a fixed-term contract.

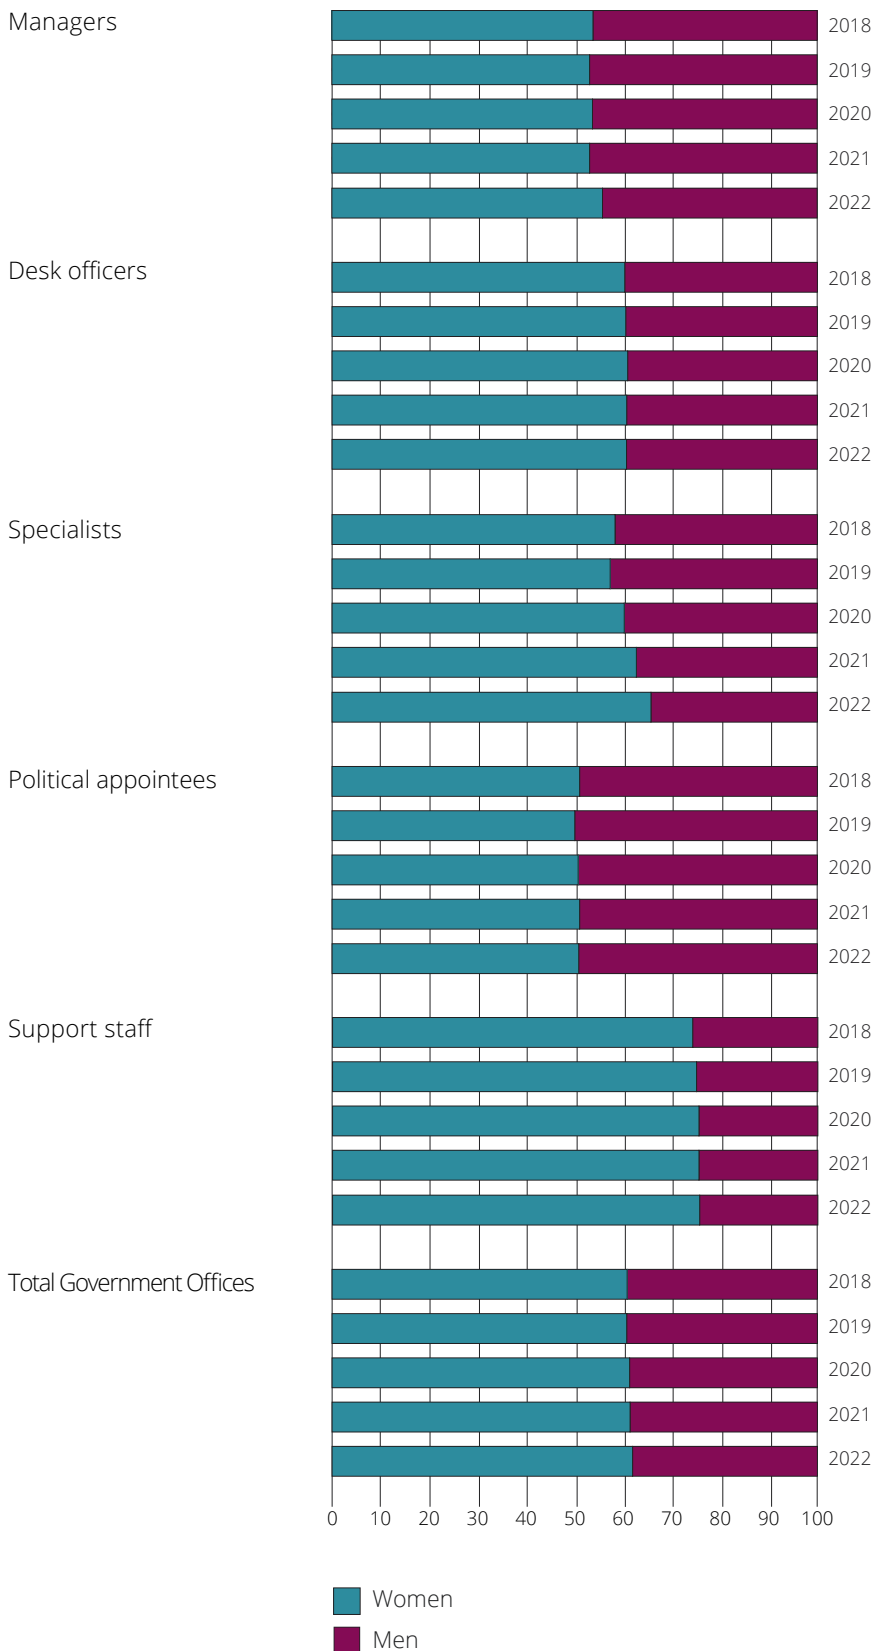

The report on 'political appointees' includes ministers, state secretaries and political advisers, including press secretaries.

'Support staff' refers to administrative officers, clerical officers, service staff, etc.

'Calculation as FTEs' (full-time equivalents) means that extent of employment has been taken into account. Accordingly, two employees working 50 per cent each are counted as one FTE.

Proportion of women and men by staff category

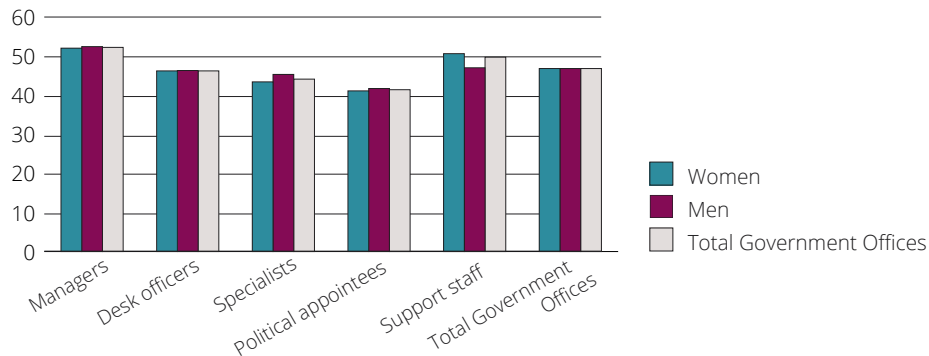

This diagram shows the proportion of women and men by staff category.

Average age and average length of service

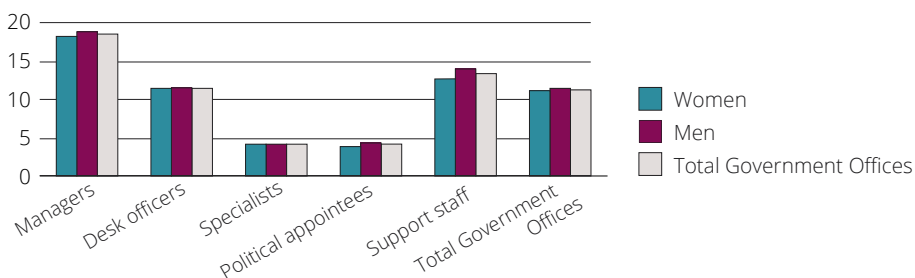

The diagrams show average age and average length of service by staff category in 2022.

Average age by staff category

The average age of Government Offices employees was 47 in 2022.

Average length of service by staff category

Den genomsnittliga anställningstiden varierar kraftigt mellan personalgrupperna.

The average length of service varies substantially between staff categories. The overall average length of service in the Government Offices is 11 years. The short length of service among specialists is due to their appointment, often to committees, on a fixed-term contract.

Staff turnover

As shown in the data on average length of service per staff category, many permanent employees have worked at the Government Offices for a long time. This is partly due to the opportunities available for moving to other positions at the Government Offices.

However, some Government Offices duties require specific professional experience from other parts of society. This is particularly true for those employed under the Government Offices specialist agreement, i.e. fixed-term contracts at ministries and on committees and inquiries. External staff mobility among ministry employees (excluding committee staff) was 18 per cent in 2022, and internal mobility between ministries was 5 per cent. In addition to this, officials change jobs within each ministry.

Sickness absence

The sickness absence rate at the Government Offices was 2.5 per cent in 2022. Sickness absence was 3.1 per cent among women and 1.5 per cent among men in 2022. At the time of production of this Yearbook, the figures for the public sector as a whole for 2022 were not confirmed. For comparison, the 2021 rate was 3.6 per cent.

Sickness absence by age group

The diagram below shows that long-term absence in the Government Offices, as in society at large, increases with age. In total, 7 per cent of employees at the Government Offices are 29 years old or younger, 54 per cent are between 30 and 49, and 39 per cent are 50 or older.

Sickness absence by age group 2022

Parental leave and care of a sick child

Of the total number of working hours for women in the Government Offices in 2022, 3.1 per cent were parental leave and 0.3 per cent care of a sick child. The corresponding figures for men were 2.2 and 0.4 per cent, respectively.

Parental benefit

	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022
All employees	3.3%	3.1%	3.0%	2.9%	2.8%
Women	3.8%	3.6%	3.4%	3.4%	3.1%
Men	2.6%	2.3%	2.4%	2.3%	2.2%

Temporary parental benefit

	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022
All employees	0.5%	0.4%	0.4%	0.4%	0.4%
Women	0.5%	0.4%	0.4%	0.4%	0.3%
Men	0.5%	0.4%	0.4%	0.4%	0.4%

Equal pay

Every year, a pay survey is conducted in collaboration with the social partners to detect, remedy and prevent unjustified differences in pay and other employment terms between women and men at the Government Offices. The 2022 pay survey has not indicated any structural differences between men's and women's pay that need to be corrected.

Integration of climate and environment in the Government Offices' preparatory processes

Integrating climate and environment in the Government Offices' preparatory processes is an important tool for achieving the national environmental and climate goals adopted by the Riksdag. The aim of the Government Offices' 2017 environmental policy for integration of climate and environment in preparation processes is to ensure that, where relevant, consistent account is taken of the climate and environmental impact of government decisions. This applies to decisions on new proposals and new policies, and new committees of inquiry and remits to government agencies. This requires preparing relevant decision-making material that includes climate and environmental analyses. The work on integrating climate and environment is continuously monitored and developed. The Ministry of the Environment is responsible for overseeing the work and reporting to the Prime Minister each year. All ministry heads are responsible for the work in their ministry. The work must be developed so as to strengthen the central government's own work.

Activities with direct environmental impact (internal activities)

The Government Offices works to ensure that consideration for the environment is a natural element of day-to-day work. Internal environmental action must be inclusive and open. The Government Offices identifies and examines adverse environmental impacts of its activities so that they can be avoided. The Government Offices continuously monitors, evaluates and improves its environment action based on an environmental management system developed in accordance with environmental management standard ISO 14001.

In 2022, the Permanent Secretary approved new overall environmental goals and interim targets for Government Offices activities in 2023–2025. The goals aim to:

- reduce the amount of waste resulting from activities;
- ensure that use of IT products and services is long-term sustainable and beneficial to activities;
- reduce carbon emissions through climate-smart meetings;
- use procurement and purchasing as a key tool to reduce negative environmental impacts; and
- create awareness and knowledge of environmental action in the organisation.

Future work will take account of experiences gained during the pandemic regarding issues such as reduced emissions from official travel.

Government Offices expenditure

The activities of the Government Offices, excluding transfers, are largely financed via the appropriation for administrative operations. Special activities and services are financed via programme appropriations. The tables below show the Government Offices' costs under the appropriation for administrative operations. Salaries and premises account for the bulk of the Government Offices' costs.

A more detailed account of the Government Offices' finances is available in the annual report of the Government Offices 2022, see www.government.se.

More information

The Government and Government Offices websites

The website www.government.se contains information about the work of the Government and the Government Offices. The website also contains information for media, calendars, lists of government business, contact information and vacant positions. Also available on the website are publications such as government bills, written communications, the Swedish Government Official Reports and information material. Visitors can also subscribe to news and watch webcasts of press conferences.

The Swedish Code of Statutes (SFS) – the official and authentic version of acts, ordinances and certain government agency regulations – is published on the website www.svenskforfattningssamling.se.

Rkrattsbaser.gov.se contains acts, ordinances, committee terms of reference and the database of committees of inquiry.

There is also an English-language website: government.se.

Lagrummet (Swedish only)

www.lagrummet.se is the public administration's common website for Swedish legal information. It contains links to the legal sources available on the internet and to legal information from the Government, the Riksdag, the courts and central government agencies.

The Government Offices main archives and research room

Here you can search in the Government Offices register of documents and access Government Offices official documents. Documents that may be subject to secrecy regulations are always examined prior to being released.
