"We need a responsible economic policy to ensure that the Swedish economy grows and the situation for households improves for the benefit of all. The key to this is financial stability. Sweden's financial system needs to be stable and efficient. It's essential to enhance security and strengthen Sweden's national security, and that's why it's important to combat money laundering, increase our preparedness to respond to cyber threats and ensure that Sweden is equipped to prevent and respond to economic disruptions. This is how we will pave the way for higher employment, greater security and strong economic growth in Sweden."
